Amy K. Kanyuk

Amy is a founding member of McDonald & Kanyuk, PLLC, in Concord, New Hampshire. She is licensed to practice law in New Hampshire, Massachusetts and South Dakota. She concentrates her practice on estate, gift and generation-skipping planning for individuals and families of high net worth, and has worked extensively in the area of asset protection. In addition, she frequently counsels fiduciaries and beneficiaries with respect to issues related to the administration of trusts.

Amy is a Fellow of the American College of Trust and Estate Counsel (ACTEC), where she formerly served as the New Hampshire State Chair and on the Board of Regents. Amy also serves on ACTEC's Asset Protection, Tax Policy and National Membership Selection Committees, and is a Chancellor of ACTEC's New England Fellows Institute. In addition, Amy is the official ACTEC observer to the Uniform Law Commission's Conflicts of Laws in Trusts and Estates Committee.

Amy's articles and comments about tax and estate planning have appeared in a number of publications, including Trusts and Estates, Estate Planning, Barron's, and the Journal of Accountancy. She frequently lectures before professional and civic groups throughout the United States on tax and estate planning topics. Amy also has served as an adjunct professor at the University of New Hampshire School of Law, teaching Wills, Trusts and Estates. She is often retained as an expert witness to provide opinions and testimony in trust and estate litigation.

Amy received her Bachelor of Science in finance, with highest distinction, from Penn State University, and earned both her law degree and M.B.A. from Boston College.

In addition to her legal practice, Amy was a founder, original member and director of Concord Trust Company, LLC, a non-depository, directed trust company located in Bedford, New Hampshire and Rapid City, South Dakota. In May 2021, Concord Trust was acquired by IQ-EQ, an investor services provider headquartered in Luxembourg.
